The Russeltown Church and Cemetery Committee is dedicated to preserving this historical site and the memories of the people who have been associated with it through the years.

Unfortunately with so many friends and family no longer with us, we must remind those who remain both near and far that their financial donation is greatly needed to carrying on this work. The Committee is able to provide tax receipts and hope that our appeal for support will be heard.

Donations may be sent to the:
Russeltown Church & Cemetery Fund

The annual meeting of the Committee will be held Monday, July 29th 2013. If you have any thoughts or concerns to share, please speak with a committee member after the service.

Please feel free to take an extra copy of today's service bulletin to share with friends and family who were not able to attend today and encourage them to help us maintain this historic site.

Have you heard of The Russeltown Tragedy?

Andrew Learmont Spedon was a Scottish born author who lived in the Russeltown area. He was an established author, teacher, merchant and editor of the New Dominion (Ormstown) and member of this church. In 1866 a collection of short stories were published in a book called "Candian Summer Evening Tales". One of those stories is The Russeltown Tragedy. His description of the land, the community and even the Russeltown cemetery are fascinating – even though it is nearly 150 years old.

For a small donation you can obtain a copy of this work today after the service.
